The screenshot displays a Windows desktop environment. At the top, a Notepad window titled 'index.html - Блокнот' shows the HTML code for a calculator interface. The code includes two input fields for numbers and buttons for addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. Below the code editor, a terminal window is open, showing the execution of Git commands to add files, commit the changes with a message in Russian, and amend the commit to reset the author information. The terminal output shows the commit message 'Добавлены кнопки операций' and the command 'git commit --amend --reset-author' being executed successfully, resulting in '1 file changed, 8 insertions(+)'.
